Born in Bahia, nowadays I live in Pernambuco, and work with film programming and curating. In addition to the exhibition market, I work with short film distribution and also have a research on the commercial performance of Brazilian feature films, as well as an ongoing undergraduate thesis on Ancine's public policies for film distribution. I believe in a national film that can be accessible to as many people as possible, respecting the cultural and social diversity that exists in our country and around the world.
